1. In reference a. the Panel notified you that the tasks assigned in reference b. had been essentially completed. The Panel had been assigned two major tasks:

a. Enumeration of the personality data elements desired by the community, and;

b. Development of a standard machine format for receiving the data from NSA.

The first task was completed and the list of data elements forwarded to NSA (reference c.). The second task became superfluous when no user had a requirement for the data in machine language; the Panel left it to NSA to provide the data in the manner most convenient for them. However, it was decided not to close business officially until some of the NSA product (in response to the IGCP) had been received, and arrangements for further information interchange discussed.

2. Listings from two of the three files that constitute the NSA response have been received by user agencies, with the contribution from the final file scheduled for distribution in the summer of 1972. Further information exchange has already been discussed in reference d.

3. Consequently, we request that the SD&DS consider our task completed and that the Panel be disestablished.
